RTP CU President, Doug Wilkerson, Retires

After 30 years of dedicated service, Doug Wilkerson, President, retired from RTP Credit Union on March 29, 2019. The long-time financial leader has been in the credit union industry over 40 years, working for other credit unions in North Carolina prior to coming to RTP Credit Union in 1988.

Wilkerson helped transform the credit union from a single location and $12 million in assets to now three locations and over $110 million in assets. He was instrumental in implementing our credit and debit card programs, online banking and most recently the build and move into our new corporate headquarters and main branch. "Not many people have the opportunity to come into an organization, get to build a team of hard-working professionals and grow a business which has touched so many lives," stated Wilkerson.

Wilkerson has a passion for credit unions and helping credit union members. He often enjoyed talking with members in the lobby and reminiscing about the "old days" at the credit union. To many members, he is a friend and always just a phone call away. His dedication also led him to serve as President of the Tarheel Chapter of the Carolinas Credit Union League.

Looking back at his career, Wilkerson said, "In the 30 years I have been at RTP Credit Union, we have shared some incredible times with a lot of incredible people. I will always be grateful for the Board of Directors, our volunteers and our awesome employees who have all pulled together to make RTP CU what it is today. I also leave the credit union with a lot of pride and appreciation for our members. I will remember you always and think about how lucky I am to have spent so much of my career with you."

We congratulate Wilkerson on his years of service and leadership to the credit union. He plans to enjoy his next chapter by riding his Harley as much as possible and spending time with his family and friends.
